THIS ANSWER SEATED HIM

The whole courtroom yesterday afternoon was convulsed with merriment when Attorney McNamara was examining W. W. Booher as to his qualifications to sit on the Gallio case, says the Elko Free Press. Mr. Booher was formerly editor of the Independent, and after the usual question had been asked him by the attorney, Mr. McNamara said:

"Mr. Booher, you read an account of this raid in the newspapers?" "I did," replied Mr. Booher. "With your experience as a newspaper man, you no doubt paid little attention to the truthfulness of this newspaper article," said the attorney.

"I believe the newspaper came as near telling the truth and would believe it sooner than I would you as an attorney in this case," replied Mr. Booher, and the attorney took his seat, while the judge rapped for order in the courtroom.

PHYSICIANS ARE WEARY OF STRIKES

GRAZ, Austria, March 17.—Weary of the endless strikes of all classes of working people, many of them political and nearly all on trivial grounds, the Etyrian Physicians' association has formally declared it will make reprisal in event of a wanton strike involving communication or traffic in any way endangering the public health and comfort, they will strike and refuse a visit or prescribe for the sick.

COMPLETE X-RAY OF EARTH'S ATMOSPHERE

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 17.—The Carnegie Institution at Washington has just completed what might be termed an X-ray of the earth's atmosphere, and has forwarded from here all data in regard to the experiment, which was made through the use of the non-magnetic ship Carnegie, which arrived here recently.

The X-ray was in the form of observations of compass and other magnetic variations on all of the earth's oceans, these variations being traced in the atmosphere by two specially designed instruments called a deflector and magnetometer. These tracings later will be shown on a chart, which might be likened to the X-ray plate; this chart will be made available to every navy and merchant marine on earth as a guide to navigation, as nearly exact as it is humanly possible to make such a guide.

AMUSEMENTS

NORMA TALMADGE AT THE BUTLER TODAY

The offering at the Butler today is Norma Talmadge, in Oliver D. Bailey's play, "The Branded Woman," which has been pictured, and offers Miss Talmadge with a role which demands the utmost in histrionic capabilities. The story opens in Dot Belmar's notorious gambling joint which, with the addition of a staff of pretty girls, is a popular rendezvous for members of the smart set. In spite of a mysterious "pull," which obtained protection for her establishment from the police, the notorious demi-monde, however, had never really forgiven Judge Whitlock for cutting off her son's income after he had eloped with her years before, and she hoped some day to have her revenge. But she did not interfere upon the death of her husband, whom she had deserted, when the old judge assumed the guardianship of the baby girl left fatherless. Her little girl is reared in a fashionable girls' boarding school, and it is not until her graduation day that Dot Belmar sees her chance for revenge. To tell you more of the story would only tend to spoil the picture for you. Suffice to say that tense situations are offered which develop into a climax of gripping dimensions. Added to the feature will be the latest Pathe News. Tomorrow, George Melford's special production, "Behold My Wife," the great picture of the season.

FORMER NOBLEMEN WORK AS PORTERS

(By Associated Press) CONSTANTINOPLE, March 17.—Russian nobles of noble blood and high rank are fighting the wolf from the doorstep in the uniforms of porters and messengers in Constantinople, center of the crumbling empire's refugees. Some are small shopkeepers and many who knew court life in Petrograd are waiters and waitresses.

Wrangel's remnant of an army is disintegrating and many commanders are drifting into the city where they pocket their pride and tackle the hardest problem of their lives—the mere getting of enough to eat.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY DIVIDE CONS

The annual meeting of the Divide Consolidated Mining company was held Wednesday afternoon at the company's offices in Tonopah. The officers elected for the ensuing year were: William Watters, president, Roger Doherty, vice-president, J. E. Adams, secretary and treasurer, and they, with J. H. Miller and Richard Finn, make up the board of directors. It is thought that in the near future the company will resume operations, as its ground location is one of the choicest in the Divide district.
